Scott S. Phillips : The Stink of Flesh -- The Original Screenplay before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Stink of Flesh -- The Original Screenplay:

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Fun zombie rompBy GenevaFun zombie romp, certainly entertaining, especially since it was written before the current vogue of zombie/walking dead occurred. The DVD came out in 2005 so this was of course prior to that... There is alot of sex involved but it all makes sense contextually.

Fun and explicit

The writing is witty and daring this is the movie every zombie geek aspires to make EyeCraveDVD.com Wandering the zombie wasteland, Matool lives by his animal instinct not to mention his hammer and giant nails. But when hes kidnapped by a mysterious couple, he must rely on an entirely different weapon to survive... Read the original shooting script for THE STINK OF FLESH and see how a low-budget film translates from page to screen in the cult movie Lawrence Raffel of MonstersAtPlay.com called A fantastic entry in the zombie sub-genre. Great characters, talented filmmaking, an inventive storyline... Definitely recommended and in my humble opinion, a far better film than 28 Days Later." Written by Scott S. Phillips, screenwriter of the Martial Arts classic DRIVE (1997) and several episodes of the CW Network TV series KAMEN RIDER DRAGON KNIGHT, and author of the novels PETE, DRINKER OF BLOOD, FRIDAY THE 13th: CHURCH OF THE DIVINE PSYCHOPATH, and SQUIRREL EYES. Also includes an appreciation of the movie by Cody Hamman of LifeBetweenFrames.com.

About the Author Scott S. Phillips has written in almost every capacity imaginable: films, TV, books, comics and even dialogue for talking dolls. His most recent novel is PETE, DRINKER OF BLOOD. He also wrote the novels SQUIRREL EYES and FRIDAY THE 13TH: CHURCH OF THE DIVINE PSYCHOPATH, and the short story collection TALES OF MISERY AND IMAGINATION. Scott wrote the screenplay for the cult action flick DRIVE (1997), and 12 episodes of the CW Network's KAMEN RIDER DRAGON KNIGHT. Perhaps most importantly, he once performed as stand-in for the legendary Lemmy in a Motorhead video.
