John McPherson : Women Are from Venus, Men Are Idiots before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Women Are from Venus, Men Are Idiots:

1 of 2 people found the following review helpful. It was good for a chuckle or two By Kindle Customer I thought it was funny. I liked it enough that I'll share it. But I was hoping for more. It was a bit short. 2 of 3 people found the following review helpful. Ok, but pricey By E. Torres It was funny, but the price is too expensive for just a few pages which I went through in half an hour. 0 of 1 people found the following review helpful. ok By docmaximus Ok to read for a quick laugh but nothing out of this world but ok for the price but could be even cheaper

Inside Women Are from Venus, Men Are Idiots, Close to Home cartoonist John McPherson illustrates what happens when planets--and planetary beings--just don't seem to align. From memorable Thanksgiving TV-carving dinners to disjointed marriage counseling sessions, McPherson culls more than 75 relationship-specific, full-color panels inside this interplanetary ode to coupledom. McPherson's mastery in Close to Home is elevating the mundane to the magnificent. The caustic interactions between balding, bespeckled middle-aged men and auburn-haired, beehive-tressed women become achingly funny when sketched by his pen. Appearing in more than 700 newspapers internationally, McPherson's Close to Home is one of the most popular card lines from Recycled Paper Greetings.

About the Author John McPherson hails from Painted Post, New York. He holds mechanical engineering and English degrees from Bucknell University and began drawing Close to Home in 1992. He currently resides in upstate New York with his two sons.
