David Rowell Workman : *Zombie Brides from Planet X: By the author of True People and Life of a French Fry before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Zombie Brides from Planet X: By the author of True People and Life of a French Fry:

A failed movie producer is ready to commit suicide by jumping off a bridge after his latest film premiere is a total bomb. Fortunately, his Guardian Angel, in the form of Ed Wood Jr, shows up with a fool-proof plan for success and an unpublished script of his own.

About the Author David Rowell Workman has been writing for many years and recently released a collection of prose, The Tainted Omnibus. He has also written short stories and several detective novels. His current novels are, A Case of the Nasties, Life of a French Fry, The Killer was a CrossDresser. He is also co-author of the thriller Tub of Spiders with author Jennifer Patterson.
